

SALES TAX BILL IS DEFEATED FOR FIFTH TIME

ROOSEVELT WILL DELIVER BONUS VETO IN PERSON

WILL APPEAR BEFORE JOINT SESSION TODAY

Huey Long's One-Man Filibuster Is Broken

Washington, May 21.—(P)—President Roosevelt's personal delivery of a veto of the inflationary Patman bonus bill before a joint session of congress tomorrow was finally assured tonight when democratic leaders broke a six-hour filibuster by Senator Long (D-La.) against senate participation.

The audacity of Long's move, seeking single handed to block a resolution for a joint session, had stirred even the White House itself.

But as the senate headed into a night session, with Long talking on hour after hour, word came from the executive offices that the president would deliver his veto blow personally to the house at 12:30 P. M. eastern standard time, whatever happened.

Finally, however, by a bit of parliamentary maneuvering, the Louisiana was defeated in his intent. Nevertheless, it was only after the senate sergeant at arms had been sent out to round up absent members to make a quorum that the joint session resolution was adopted 44 to 4.

Long, who had given notice he would speak several hours longer in opposition to what he called an effort by the president to "make a display" by his unprecedented personal appearance to deliver a veto message, finally lost the floor when he left the chamber after suggesting a question.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) immediately claimed Long had given up his right to the floor and he was upheld.

The Texan, holding fast to his advantage, stayed on his feet while a quorum call sounded and when this was concluded democratic leader Robinson moved adoption of the resolution.

Long meanwhile re-entered the chamber and claimed he had not lost the floor, but Robinson claimed no business had been transacted since the last call and Vice President Garner upheld his point of order.

The roll was then called on the resolution, but showed only 43 to 4 for adoption. This just missed being a majority of the senate and democratic leader Robinson ordered absentees be rounded up to put over the Long-blocked resolution.

Vice President Garner upheld a contention by Robinson that no business had been transacted since the last quorum call and therefore Long had given up his right to the floor.

Three republicans—Dickinson, Iowa; Schall, Minnesota, and Steiwer, Oregon—voted with Long against the resolution.

The fight tonight was just a side issue in the whole show, and leaders on both sides of the Capitol were agreed that the delivery tomorrow by the president of his veto message would be synonymous to a death warrant for the Patman bill.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN MEET

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—(P)—More than 200 Democratic women leaders met here today to make preliminary plans for the 1936 campaign.

Governor Horner, who addressed the luncheon, said "selfish, self-styled" Republican leaders are seeking to destroy the state in an effort to regain political control.

G. A. R. May Invite Confederate Vets To Meet In North

Bloomington, Ill., May 21.—(P)—Speaking to the Illinois state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Springfield, N. Y., national commander of the G. A. R., tonight urged some northern city to invite the confederate veterans to hold their 1935 encampment north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Stacey said the confederate veterans had been unable to secure a suitable place in the south, and declared that an invitation to the southern ex-soldiers from a northern city would be a wonderful "gesture of friendship."

CENTRALIA MAY CONSTRUCT OWN LIGHT PLANT

Franchise Of Illinois Power-Light Co., May Be Revoked

Centralia, Ill., May 21.—(P)—On the eve of a meeting of city officials to consider a combined move for municipal ownership of utilities, another southern Illinois city disclosed steps to revoke the franchise of the Illinois Power and Light Company.

City Attorney L. J. Jones of Centralia late today revealed Centralia's action as set forth in that city's answer to an injunction petition filed by the utility company in an effort to restrain the city, its officials, and Harold Lokes of the Public Works Administration from proceeding with the construction of a municipal power and light plant here.

Last night the city council of Wood River voted to revoke the utility's franchise in that community. The town has been entirely without power at long intervals since service first was disrupted April 3 by striking electrical workers.

The citizens of Centralia voted approval of a municipally-owned plant at a city-wide election January 15. It called for a PWA loan of $428,000 and a grant of $147,000.

In its injunction proceedings the utility company claimed an irreparable loss would be incurred by stock and bond holders of the corporation, and that thousands would be thrown out of work in the event the Centralia plant was constructed.

In addition to nine allegations contained in Centralia's answer, filed in the federal court at Danville, the city counter-charged the Illinois Power and Light Company with rate discrimination from November 1, 1934, to February 1, 1935. The city alleged that the company furnished some citizens with lower rates during that period on condition they vote against the proposed municipal plant. On the basis of its allegations, the city asked that the company's franchise be forfeited.

William A. White May Not Attend G. O. P. Meeting

Kansas Editor Says Parley Should Be For Young Republicans

Topeka, Kas., May 21.—(P)—William Allen White, once mentioned as the probable chairman of the resolutions committee at the June mid-western conference, may not even attend.

John D. M. Hamilton, national committeeman for Kansas, said he knew nothing about it today when failure to name the Kansas editor and author as a delegate became a topic of discussion in the capital.

White's name was not among the list of delegates chosen at his district's meeting yesterday at Manhattan. It was explained he had not applied for a delegate's credentials.

At Emporia, White said he had been asked to attend, but "hesitated, feeling I might crowd out some man who really desired to go."

He declared "it should be a young man's conference."

Aside from Hamilton, most party leaders declined to discuss the matter of White's attendance. Several, however, expressed belief he would be placed on the state delegation "somewhere" and would go.

HUNGER MARCH HALTED: CROWD RETURNS HOME

Police Escort Women And Men To Park In Capital

By Byno E. Tipps
Springfield, Ill., May 21.—(P)—The Illinois Workers Alliance's state-wide "hunger march" to the state house today turned out to be a police-escorted parade to an outdoor park.

There the orderly crowd of approximately two thousand unemployed men and women broke up late this afternoon and at least half started for home.

Those who planned to stay in Springfield overnight were quartered in two large halls downtown.

Springfield officials refused to permit the scheduled demonstration at the state house and told alliance leaders they could not carry out their plans to camp here in protest against the closing of relief stations and the sales tax increase legislation.

Maintaining discipline, the nearest alliance members got to the state house when they were marched quickly by it on the way from their downtown headquarters to Douglas park.

Then they noisily broke out with yells of "down with the sales tax," "we want unemployment insurance" and "Horner, Horner, when do we eat?"

As the house of representatives considered the relief financing-sales tax increase bills, leaders of the alliance were unable to get appointments with Governor Horner and members of the legislature.

Mayor John W. Kapp, Jr., told them that order must be kept that Springfield was hard pressed to care for its own jobless and would not try to feed and shelter the demonstrators.

Organizing their own police force to keep order, the members of the alliance said Karl Lockner of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois unemployment council, was trying to "horn in" with a radical demonstration.

They refused to permit Lockner's followers to carry communist banners in the line of march to the park. Arriving there, Lockner was not permitted to speak and trouble was threatened briefly.

Edward C. Morgan of Staunton, president of the alliance, and Gerry Alford, local chairman, insisted that absolute order must be kept.

Spain's Flying Cavalier Spans Atlantic Ocean

Juan Ignacio Pombo, Reaches Natal, Brazil After 16 Hour Flight

Rio De Janeiro, May 21.—(P)—Juan Ignacio Pombo, 21, Spain's flying cavalier, began the youngest aviator ever to span the Atlantic today when he roared to a stop at Natal, Brazil, after a 16 hour, 55 minute flight from Africa.

Carrying in his breast pocket a picture of his childhood sweetheart in Mexico, D. F., whom he is enroute to see, he left Bathurst, Gambia, West Africa, at 8:15 p. m. (Eastern standard time) last night.

Pombo carried no radio but apparently he had an uneventful journey in favorable flying conditions. He landed at Natal at 3:10 p. m. (1:10 p. m. Eastern standard time), almost realizing his prediction he would span the South Atlantic in 15 hours.

From Natal Pombo will fly by stages to Mexico in his powerful plane, the "Santander." There he expects to ask the hand of Senorita Elena Rivero, his comely childhood sweetheart in Santander.

By his ocean-conquering flight Pombo put behind him the worst part of his 7,000 mile flight, made doubly dangerous because he had no radio. High mountains must be spanned, however, before he reaches his sweetheart.

CITY CLERK CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Kankakee, Ill., May 21.—(P)—Francis L. Pister, former city clerk of Kankakee, was under arrest today, charged with the embezzlement of $13,779 of city funds during his term in office.

Arraigned late yesterday, Pister waived a preliminary hearing, was bound over to the June term of the grand jury and released on bond of $5,000 signed by himself, his wife and Dode Rex, former mayor.

The warrant was sworn to by Mayor Roy D. Talor, who said Pister had admitted taking the money and "using some in my business and shooting the rest away." Mayor Talor said Pister attempted to make a settlement, offering to pay off the money at the rate of $300 a month, but the proposition was turned down.

Social Worker Dies

JANE ADDAMS

Jane Addams, Social Worker And Champion of Peace Dies Tuesday Following Operation

PRESIDENT TO STAND PAT ON WAGE SCALES

May Adjust Structure Three Months Hence Leaders Say

Chicago, May 21.—(P)—Jane Addams, internationally known social worker and champion of world peace, died in Passavant hospital, where she had undergone a major operation.

Miss Addams, the founder of the famous Chicago social settlement, Hull House and a Nobel prize winner for her peace efforts, would have been 75 years old on September 6.

She was ordered to the hospital Saturday when her physician, Dr. James A. Britton, decided an immediate operation was necessary to relieve abdominal adhesions. Miss Addams had only half an hour's notice, which she said cheerfully was just long enough to let her finish a book she was reading.

While her age made the operation dangerous, she came through in fairly good condition and announced Monday that it "wasn't nearly so bad" as her last in December, 1931, when she was a patient in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.

Early today, however, she took a turn for the worse. Dr. Britton, Charles A. Elliott and A. H. Curtis, called to her bedside a little after 6 A. M., reported the patient was "sinking rapidly." An hour later she lapsed into unconsciousness.

She died at 5:15 P. M. (central standard time).

Miss Addams died peacefully deep in a semi-coma. Her attendants said she had no pain.

Dr. Alice Hamilton, an old friend, was beside her when she died. Outside her room more than a score of intimate friends and associates waited, although all hope for her recovery had been abandoned hours before.

Dr. S. James A. Britton, Charles A. Elliott and A. H. Curtis, who had attended her, issued a formal statement soon after she died. It said:

"Jane Addams condition became critical at 2 A. M. (central standard time) today. She died at 5:15 P. M. from a low of $19 to a high of $94 'inequitable' and 'unsound' Green said 'I would not be surprised if it led even to widespread strikes among relief workers.' McCarran foresaw a 'wreck' of all wage scales. Seconding Green's criticism of the wages, the Virginia Federation of Labor adopted a resolution calling on the president to place the state in a higher wage bracket, although John Hopkins Hall, chairman of the legislative committee, said 'this is not a protest against President Roosevelt but against his ill-advised advisors.'"

U. S. Clerk Signs 1618 Summonses

East St. Louis, Ill., May 21.—(P)—D. H. Reed, clerk of the federal court here, today finished signing 1618 summonses for defendants and witnesses in the $100,000 damage suit brought by Alvin Barnes of Harrisburg, Ill., against general and local officers of the Progressive Miners of America.

In his petition filed at Danville, Ill., Barnes, a member of the United Mine Workers of America, charged that he was prevented from retaining or obtaining employment because he refused to join the Progressive Miners.

About 400 of the summonses will be served in southern Illinois and 100 in the northern part of the state. The remaining 1118 will be served in eastern Illinois. The case is set for trial July 1 at Danville.

DEMOCRATS DECIDE TO PASS MEASURE WITHOUT THE EMERGENCY CLAUSE

FORD BOOSTS WAGE SCALE TO $6 A DAY

126,000 Employees Of Firm Benefitted By Increase

Detroit, May 21.—(P)—Henry Ford, who stands out in the automobile industry as "the great independent," stepped up the minimum daily wage of his 126,000 employees today, from $5 to $6 adding $2,000,000 a month to the Ford Motor Co. payroll.

The increase restores the minimum wage level of the Ford plants to where it was in the pre-depression months of 1929.

The wage increase announcement was made by representatives of the company, and is in line with Ford's often repeated observation: "We haven't seen any real wages yet."

Both Ford and Lincoln plants in Detroit and other cities share in the upward revision of the wage scale, and the announcement said that "many of the wage brackets above the new minimum will be given hourly rate advances from five cents upwards."

Ford was a leader among the principal manufacturers of the United States in stepping up wage scales for factory workers as far back as 1914.

In 1929 the minimum Ford daily wage was jumped to $7 and held at that figure until near the end of 1931, when the scale was dropped back to $6 a day. A year later it was cut to $4 a day, and then in March 1934, it was boosted to $5 a day.

"The present $6 minimum was the highest regular figure the Ford industries ever reached," said today's announcement, "until an extra dollar was added in an attempt to break the depression by increasing purchasing power."

The $7 a day minimum, said the company, cost the Ford interests $33,000,000 for the 2 years," said the announcement, "the Ford Motor Co. has paid its workmen a total of $623,000,000 over and above what the company needed to have paid had it followed the general wage scale."

The restored $5 minimum has been in effect 14 months. Of the 126,000 workers to benefit by the boost to $6 a day, 41,000 are located in Detroit.

Hog Prices Hit 10 Dollar Mark On Chicago Mart

Highest Price Paid For Swine In Fifty Five Months

Chicago, May 21.—(P)—The once lowly hog assumed a position of financial importance today.

Hog prices here swept up 25 cents in an active round of buying to a top of $10 the highest in 55 months—since October, 1930. It was also ten cents above the previous 1935 peak.

The spectacular advance was reflected in other primary markets and was, of course, more than welcome throughout the corn belt. It was attributable to the old law of supply and demand. Only 9,000 hogs were received here, including 3,000 direct to packers. Coupled with Monday's 11,000 Chicago arrivals, the two-day supply in Chicago and seven other leading markets was the smallest in a generation. It failed to meet immediate requirements.

One of the major factors in the curtailment of shipments was the government's 1934 campaign to reduce the hog population.

With the processing tax of $2.25 a hundred weight considered, the average price paid by packers today was approximately $11.90. This compared with an average of $12.40 during 1928, the generally accepted goal of the agricultural administration. Today's top of $10 plus the processing levy set packers back $12.25. They have not paid so much since pre-depression days.

Cattle and sheep were comparatively quiet.

RECOVERS STOLEN PROPERTY

Recovery of a number of old coins and other property alleged to have been stolen about April 1 of this year, from the home of August Rolland of near Waverly, was made by Sheriff Kenneth Woods yesterday. One suspect was held for questioning.

The property purported to have been stolen included old half dollars and gold money.

Buy 25 Cents Worth Peanuts Gets $750 Cash

North Attleboro, Mass., May 21.—(P)—Louis DeCosterio, a waiter, rushed into a candy store today and ordered 25 cents worth of peanuts. The clerk shoved a bag forward and DeCosterio deposited his quarter.

At home he put his hand into the bag and pulled out $750 in bills. The clerk had given him a bag containing yesterday's receipts.

DeCosterio went back and exchanged the $750 for 25 cents worth of peanuts.

N. R. A. CLUB IS PROPOSED BY RICHBERG

Senate - House Clash Over Recovery Act Future Seen

By Clarence M. Wright
Washington, May 21.—(P)—An urgent plea by Donald R. Richberg for presidential power to clamp limited NRA codes on recalcitrant industries today presaged another senate-house clash over the recovery law's future.

The NRA chiefs' request for code-imposing authority was made personally to the house ways and means committee. But already a number of senators had served notice they would contest such a step, insisting that their simple resolution extending the NRA 94 months, forbidding price fixing and excluding intrastate business should become the law.

Richberg made clear he was not recommending reenactment of the power to permit licensing of industries which would not accept codes. That was contained in the original NIRA, after considerable congressional discussion, but expired last June without having been used.

At present, the chief executive may "prescribe" or impose codes fixing wages and hours, forbidding child labor and guaranteeing the right of collective bargaining. Neither has that power been used.

By inference, at least, Richberg informed the committee that the reason the right to "prescribe" codes had not been used was doubt as to its constitutionality. He proposed to remove that doubt by stipulating that "prescribed" codes should include hours and pay rates "calculated to promote or to maintain fair competition within or between trades or industries or subdivisions thereof."

"If there are to be prescribed codes," Richberg told the committee, "there reason so the president would be merely carrying out the mandate of congress. If there are any prescribed codes, the standard should be laid down by congress."

Regardless of whether the senate or Richberg resolution is enacted, it will be necessary to revise existing codes. The senate allows 30 days, while Richberg asks 6 months.

Blind Pension Bill Is Passed

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—(P)—The house filibuster was suspended long enough tonight to permit final passage of an emergency senate bill appropriating $533,700 from the state treasury to blind relief funds. The bill, by Senator L. M. Shaw, Lawrenceville democrat, goes to the governor.

The money is to be used in reimbursing counties for delinquent blind pension payments.

REFUSE TO CONSIDER SCHOOL RESOLUTION

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—(P)—The democratic house majority tonight refused to consider a resolution asking the Stults Educational Commission to make immediately its report so that legislation can be considered for the reorganization and financing of the public school system.

The resolution was introduced by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downers Grove republican, and Thomas P. Sinnett, Rock Island democrat. It was sent to the executive committee, and republicans were blocked in an effort to force its consideration.

The house tabled a resolution, by Mrs. O'Neill and Richard J. Lyons, Libertyville republican, criticizing Governor Horner, Harry L. Hopkins and the administration of relief.

SIXTH ROLL CALL WILL BE TAKEN BY HOUSE TODAY

Believe Harry Hopkins Will Reopen Relief Stations

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—(P)—Unable to get Republicans to support an immediate sales tax increase, Illinois Democrats tonight decided to pass the relief financing bill with 77 votes, to become effective on July 1 for eighteen months.

The switch in plans came after the house, for the fifth time, had refused to pass the bill with the 102-vote emergency majority.

Administration leaders expressed confidence that federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins would furnish relief funds for Illinois until the state can collect the added tax three months from now.

Tomorrow the roll will be called again on the bill to increase the retail sales tax from two to three per cent, but under new amendments only the constitutional majority of 77 votes will be needed for passage.

At a caucus following the afternoon's bitter debate and administration defeat, 78 Democratic representatives pledged themselves to vote for the relief-sales tax bill under the new plan.

Governor Horner, who declined to comment on the day's developments, attended the caucus with Mayor Kelly, Patrick A. Nash and other Chicago leaders. State Chairman Bruce A. Campbell and several state officials were also present.

They said there was no assurance that Hopkins would reopen the Illinois emergency relief commission's stations with federal funds as soon as the bill passes but that he is expected to do so.

No difficulty was encountered in getting the house to adopt the caucus amendments, which strike the emergency clause and cancel a previous agreement to stop the three per cent rate next February 1.

The tax increase is to be in effect until January 1, 1937, a period of eighteen months. Consequently relief funds will be furnished until after the 1936 elections.

Since the three per cent tax does not become law until July 1, the state cannot collect it from retailers until August 15.

Warren Wood of Joliet and a group of other Republican first-termers introduced a bill to change the system of relief administration. Democrats permitted it to go to second reading.

In the afternoon session, Republican leaders made a bitter attack upon the governor, charging him with "deliberate falsehoods," before the 94 to 54 rollcall on the sales tax increase.

To keep the bill alive, the rollcall was suspended before the vote was officially announced and a recess of two hours was taken to permit Democratic leaders to caucus on future plans for reopening relief stations.

Barbara Hutton And Count Will Reside In U. S.

New York, May 21.—(P)—Arriving from the west with her new husband, Count Hauge-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton Mdivani announced emphatically today that she did not plan to give up her American residence for a Danish castle.

The Woolworth heiress, wearing a blue polka dot dress, a mink cape and pair of diamond earrings that obviously did not come from the five-and-ten, stepped out of her private railroad car with a bright smile.

"We are going to live permanently in America," she told questioners.

"We heard you were going to live in Denmark, Count," someone called.

"No," said the Countess firmly, answering for her husband, "we are going to live in the United States."

WILL PROVIDE FOOD

Belleville, Ill., May 21.—(P)—The city of Belleville decided today to provide aid for its needy, who have been without relief since May 1.

A special committee of the city council, with authority to make emergency expenditure for relief, authorized William Farley, overseer of the poor, to make provisions to feed all needy persons.

There are 3,300 persons on relief here, approximately 12 per cent of the town's population.

Maritime Day

Wednesday is Maritime Day for the United States. It is a time devoted to the interests of the American Merchant Marine, which has had rather hard sailing since the depression and has never done as well as the shipping of other nations, supported by subsidies. It would be well if Congress could take time out and consider this day the cause of American ships and the sailors who would man them if the goods to be sent abroad were consigned to their holds.

The day itself has a special significance in American maritime history. It must be remembered that America has taken the lead in improvement of water transportation. It was Robert Fulton who gave the world the steamboat in 1807. It was on May 22, 1819, that the first steam-propelled vessel, the Savannah, started from Savannah, Ga., on a journey across the Atlantic. Using both steam and sail the ship crossed the ocean and arrived at Liverpool in 29 days. It was a great achievement and marked the beginning of a new era in ocean travel, the age of steam.

Previous to that time American sailing ships had made records for themselves. They continued to ply the seas until steam supplanted most of them. But foreign nations perfected merchant marines with government subsidies and have usually been able to carry most of the trade merchandise from port to port. Maritime Day should produce some practical ideas for the development of an American merchant marine.

Bending Exercises

An exercise enthusiast getting paid for writing a column, advises us to start the day with bending exercises. As soon as we feel we are awake, we are to start the stunts, taking the first two exercises in bed.

We are inclined to start an argument on the first premise. We are never quite sure we are awake until we're out of bed. Then we go to the basement and build the fire, bending down to shake the furnace. These spring mornings are cold. We take up the scoop and bend low to gather up some black diamonds from the receding coal pile, fearing lest summer will find us still buying coal and firing the furnace.

Not being satisfied with bending when we first arise, we continue the exercises upon returning home from work at night. We bend over the handle of a lawn mower and try to run it fast enough to keep ahead of the growing grass. The rain has made this necessary. We expect to keep up this type of exercise all summer.

This ought to be sufficient to satisfy the most exacting columnist. Otherwise things will have to remain as they are. Enough exercise is enough. We refuse to be bent any further, and any attempts to further bend us will most surely snap our good nature.

Daylight to Coast

United Airlines has inaugurated a daylight service from Chicago to California. The traveler can now take a plane at Chicago at 5 a. m., and arrive in Los Angeles in time for afternoon appointments. He can reach Portland and Seattle in time for evening dinner.

Barely three-quarters of a century ago our pioneer midwesterners drove their covered wagons still farther west and traveled for months before reaching the coast region. They forded rivers, crossed deserts and camped along the trail. They endured hardships and privations, and when they arrived in the new country, they had to carve their fortunes out of a wilderness of forest, mountain and desert.

Then came the railroad, and the west began to grow. Nearly a week was required by the first trains that traveled to the coast. The trains grew faster and more comfortable, until the traveler now sits in his Pullman with every comfort as he traverses the desert where the bones of many of the trail-blazers were bleached in the burning sun.

But the climax has been reached in the inauguration of daylight service to California. After a good night's sleep in his home in Chicago, the business man can board a plane in the early morning and speed thru the skies to an afternoon rendezvous with his clients or agents in the west coast metropolis. En route he is given every service and comfort. He gains two hours of time while traveling.

Thus does an enlightened civilization answer natural difficulties. If human intelligence can achieve this much, it can solve all its other problems and live triumphant. It can if it will, but will it?

Chance For the Indian

The western Indian, who built up his entire culture before the white man came on the presence of vast buffalo herds, may shortly get a chance to revive the old-time ways on the same basis.

John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, has authorized the laying-out of buffalo ranges on the Pine Ridge and Crow reservations in South Dakota.

This is to be done as part of a new wild life and conservation program for Indian reservations, and it is expected to play a valuable part in rebuilding Indian morale and self-respect.

In many ways the idea has much to commend it. Once Indian independence was destroyed, our government tried to make the Indian fit into white civilization. The effort has not been crowned with very much success; it might be much wiser to return, as far as possible, to old conditions and give the Indian a chance to develop along his own lines.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Split Between Big Business and Administration Is So Complete That Hush Now Convinces Anyone . . . Roper's "Advisory Council" Shows Its Colors . . . F. R. Fights Back.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—The split between big business and the Roosevelt administration is now so manifestly complete that it's hard to see how anyone on either side can protest to the contrary and still maintain a straight face.

But the acceptance of this state of affairs by all insiders coincides with a newly reinforced opinion among most New Dealers that it doesn't make much difference.

Although for a year it has been administration policy to compromise and soft-pedal with powerful special interests on the theory that their co-operation was essential to recovery, there is now pronounced belief that the New Deal is about to ride a rising tide of business improvement which will silence criticism and wash away the "lack of confidence" barrier raised by big business-big finance.

Past experience compels one to make the reservation that this New Deal cockiness may have vanished a month from now. One reports, as of the present.

Council "Help" Crumbles

After the U. S. Chamber of Commerce had loosed an all-embracing broadside at the administration and its congressional program, it was still possible to trot the tycoons of Secretary Dan Roper's Business Advisory Council to the White House with the difference that they were still behind the administration. Subsequent events have demonstrated rapidly that the council, which includes chairmen and presidents of our biggest corporations, is for the New Deal only as long as it can steer it around.

After Harry Kendall, its chairman, had agreed with Roosevelt that the proposals should not be made public without both previous consultation and a council vote, someone quickly leaked to the New York newspapers the council's report slashing at the administration's holding company bill.

Chairman Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of Chase National Bank and a council leader, testified against the administration's banking bill and let it be known that the council had prepared a report against that one, too.

Roosevelt Fights Back

Meanwhile, President Gerard Swope of General Electric—always active as a council member—was signing a letter covering distribution to all G. E. stockholders of a pamphlet alleging that the holding company legislation threatened the electrical manufacturing business.

Next the council proposed modification of the present social security program, again taking issue with specific urgings of the administration.

On the other side, Roosevelt has stiffened his back in favor of most of his program. He has given quiet but effective and unexpected support to the Wagner labor disputes bill, which is anathema to big business-big finance; he has pressed harder than ever for the holding company bill, and he has branded as "liars" those "high and mighty men" (meaning business men) who seek to wreck the AAA program by misrepresenting it.

Conspicuous publicized resignations from the Business Advisory Council are likely to follow if Roosevelt persists in ignoring its recommendations.

How British See It

New Dealers who are convinced recovery and re-election can be had without big business-big finance support are pointing to recent comment by "The Economist" of London, a publication of international prestige.

"The hindrance to recovery in the United States are more likely to be found in the financial and economic sphere than in any regulatory functions of governmental bodies, and restoration of profits by a gradual expansion of public demand is likely to do far more to raise the level of 'business confidence' than any abdication by the government of the functions it has assumed in the last two years.

"Present indications are that such expansion is on its way. Whether it will materialize and whether it will prove to be soundly based are the questions upon which the immediate economic future not only of America, but of most of the world, largely depends."

New Dealers who have seen to it that this comment was called to Roosevelt's attention assert that it embodies his present viewpoint. (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

You remember how in Egypt, back in the days of the Pharaohs, they stored up grain during the seven good years so as to be ready for the seven lean years to come . . .

Lean years may come . . . and fat years may go . . .

That's why we have close to a hundred million dollars worth of tobacco packed away in 4½ miles of warehouses to grow mild and naturally sweet.

To make sure that Chesterfields will be uniform in taste and mildness, we have in storage mild, ripe tobaccos from the crops of four years—1931-'32-'33 and '34.

Mild Ripe Tobacco . . .
Aged 2 years or more . . .

—the farmer who grows the tobacco . . .
—the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder . . .
—every man who knows about leaf tobacco—will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette; and this is the kind we buy for CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

All of the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes are properly aged to make them milder and sweeter.

Every Woman at First Session of Foods on Parade Receives Gift

Housewives will especially want to attend the first session of the big Foods on Parade Cooking School, which will be held May 27, 28, 29 and 31 at the Fox-Illinois Theater, because each woman at the first session of the school will receive a valuable recipe book featuring meat cookery. This cook book is the gift of The Journal and Courier to its women readers.

"Temple Meat Recipes" is the title of the cook book, and it was compiled by the National Live Stock and Meat Board, which is cooperating with this newspaper in bringing Foods on Parade Cooking School to this city. The recipes are all based on the newer knowledge of meat cookery which has been developed through the past few years.

The Journal and Courier are pleased to be able to offer their readers this cook book, as in no field of cookery so much as in meat cookery, have there been so many important changes in methods. Old ideas about cooking meat have been found to produce far less delicious results than the new ways of roasting, broiling and braising. This is one field in which today's up-to-the-minute cook can surpass her mother and her grandmother, for results.

"Temple Meat Recipes" is divided into six sections, devoted to recipes for cooking beef, veal, pork, lamb, sausages, and making garnishes. Valuable time tables for roasting and broiling are printed in the back of the book, showing just how long to cook beef, pork, ham and lamb to the desired degree of doneness.

On the back cover of this cook book will be found a complete calendar for 1935, a feature welcomed by women as it will be kept in the kitchen where frequent need for it is felt. The cal-

FRESHMAN CAMP TO BE HELD SEPT. 6-9

Secretary A. D. Hermann of the Y. M.C.A. has received a request for a list of names of high school senior men who are planning to enter the University of Illinois next fall. The request comes from the state "Y" and a committee of 41 university students sponsoring the Y camp for University Freshmen, to be held at Camp Seymour, Sept. 6-9. At this camp prospective freshmen are given a few days orientation and are imbued with the idea that it is the normal thing for them to carry on their religious life during their stay at the university. The sponsors of the camp are now building their invitation list for the orientation camp, which will accommodate only a limited number of freshmen. High school seniors who are planning to enter the university and who are interested in the help they would receive at the Y camp, should communicate with Secretary Hermann.

Warn of Army Worm Invasion in State

Pests Expected to Do Heavy Damage in Spots; Give Advice on Remedy

One of the most severe outbreaks of army worms that Illinois has had in recent years is threatened within the next three to five weeks, and farmers should be on guard to protect their crops, according to a warning by W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History Survey and of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Although the outbreak will be spotted and will not occur in all sections of the state, severe damage will be done in many areas, Flint said. It will be well to keep careful watch on all heavy stands of grain or heavy bluegrass pastures during the next month and get the worms before they cause serious damage, he said.

While army worms may destroy entire areas of bluegrass pastures or fields of small grain or young corn in a short time, they can be completely and cheaply controlled by the use of poisoned bran baits. The bait that has been most generally used has a base of 1 pound of paris green mixed dry with 25 pounds of bran. When this is thoroughly mixed, there is added 3 gallons of water in which 2 quarts of cheap molasses, preferably black strap, has been thoroughly dissolved.

A newer bait, with which J. H. Bigger, field entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History Survey, has been working during the past year for outworm control, uses oil instead of water and molasses. This bait is made by thoroughly mixing the 25 pounds of bran and the 1 pound of paris green or white arsenic. Then 2 quarts of a light grade oil of an S.A.E. 29 viscosity is added. No water or molasses is used. However, the bait should be thoroughly mixed so that the oil gets on every particle of the bran. Tests have shown that this bait is equal to the molasses one, is easier to make and somewhat cheaper. However, it has not been tested against the army worm.

Ten Pounds to Acre

Which ever bait is used should be applied evenly and uniformly over the ground at the rate of approximately 10 pounds an acre. If the worms are on the move, the bait should be sown over a strip about 100 feet wide across their line of march. The molasses bait should be broadcast at dusk of the evening. The oil bait can be put out earlier in the day as it does not dry out as readily as the molasses bait.

Either of the baits may be used on cattle pastures without danger if no more than the 10 pounds an acre is put out and the bait is not applied in lumps. And end-gate seeder may be used for distributing the bait or it can be sown by a man on horse-back having boxes of the bait attached to the sides of the saddle.

Warnings that a severe outbreak of army worms is imminent are based on the heavy flight of adult moths during the past month. The female moths will lay their eggs in heavy stands of grain such as wheat, oats and rye or in heavy bluegrass pasture. Each female lays about 800 eggs. The worms hatching from these eggs are very tiny at first and usually feed for ten days or nearly two weeks without being noticed. Then they begin to grow very rapidly and their appetites increase enormously. In this stage they sometimes destroy all the food in the fields where the eggs were laid, and the growing worms march out seeking new sources of food. They feed on all kinds of grasses and to a slight extent on legumes, although they usually do not cause any serious damage to red clover, sweet clover or alfalfa.

Morgan's Share of School Fund $5,490

My Cookery News Notes

By LUCILE HARRIS

Editor's Note: "Cookery News Notes" is a new feature of this newspaper, and will be followed with interest by our women readers. The writer is Lucile Harris, staff member of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, recognized authority on cookery of all kinds and especially meat cookery and the planning of meals around the meat course. Experimental cookery has developed a good deal of new information about cooking meat, which is contrary to old ideas. This series of articles will give our readers this new information in helpful form, and will also give a series of excellent recipes and suggestions for serving the meat course of the meal.

SUGGESTIONS FOR MIDNIGHT SNACKS.

Quickly cooked meats and left-over meats have the necessary pre-requisites for the midnight snack. After the show or dance we are always ready to eat and the festive spirit seems to enhance the food. Even those who feel that the late cup of coffee and sandwich keeps them awake, will leave feeling it a worth while sacrifice when the food is above reproach. And when this is true your reputation as a hostess is made.

The quickly cooked meats such as sausage and bacon fit both the needs of the occasion and the necessary economy of most of our family budgets. And just because they are economical is no indication that they are not delicious.

The odor of broiling bacon is enough to make any one's mouth water regardless of the hour. So why not accompany the traditional after-theater cup of coffee with a broiled bacon, cheese and tomato sandwich. You will find it not only popular with your guests but also with yourself because all the ingredients are staples reposing on the shelves of your refrigerator for just this kind of an impromptu party.

Bacon, Cheese and Tomato Sandwich. Toast slices of bread on both sides. On each slice place slices of fresh tomato and cover with slices of cheese. Completely cover with strips of bacon that have been cut in half crosswise. Place under a hot broiler and cook until the bacon is crisp and brown.

The bacon fat drips down into the soft melting cheese and the tomatoes, and gives the sandwich that delicious smoky flavor that only bacon can give.

Serve piping hot with coffee. Of course if you have entertained in this manner once or twice you may have established a reputation for midnight food and will welcome another suggestion or two. Try scrambled eggs and sausages for variety. This is particularly nice for the evenings when you like something hot.

Recipe for Scrambled Eggs and Sausages

Brown small link sausages, cover and cook until done. Blend eggs, adding 1 teaspoon of milk for each egg, and season with salt and pepper. Scramble in hot fat. Pile eggs on a hot plate and surround with sausages. Serve immediately.

I like to serve this with toasted rolls or hot biscuits. I sometimes think that we avoid hot biscuits at this time because we think they are a great deal of trouble at the last minute. But really they are one of our best bets because they can be made and cut ready to bake before leaving home.

Baking Powder Biscuits

3 cups flour
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
3 to 6 tablespoons lard
1 cup milk
Sift dry ingredients. Work shortening into flour with fingers, fork or pastry blender until like very coarse cornmeal. Add liquid all at once and stir quickly with a fork until mixture thickens and forms a ball on fork. Place dough on a lightly floured board and knead lightly if desired. Roll or pat out one-half to 1 inch in thickness. If a fine grain is desired, knead for about one-half minute, or about 20 to 30 times. Cut with floured cutter, and place biscuits on a baking pan. Place in refrigerator until ready to bake. Bake at 425-450 degrees F. for 10 to 15 minutes depending on the size.

If you once get the habit of making biscuits in this way, I believe you will be serving them often at your regular meals because we all admit that hot bread makes even the most meager meal attractive.

Lard is the perfect shortening to be used in these biscuits that are allowed to stand in the refrigerator before baking. Because not only does it give us the most palatable biscuits when using the standard method of procedure but due to its plastic characteristics the biscuit retains its flakiness even though it stands a number of hours after the liquid is added.

There is also another suggestion for midnight lunches that I think will meet with your approval; it is called Individual Meat Short Cakes. I suggest you make the creamed or a la king mixture from left-over meat and then combine with the hot biscuits.

Individual Meat Shortcakes. Prepare the creamed or a la king mixture and place in the refrigerator until ready to reheat. The individual shortcakes are also made and placed on the pan ready to bake before putting in the refrigerator.

After coming home, it is necessary to bake the shortcakes and heat the meat.

Try them on your family for dinner and see if they add their stamp of approval. I hope you will enjoy having your guests at the midnight snacks as much as I know they will enjoy coming to them.

Two Men Hurt as Auto Strikes Pole

Elliott and Vasconcellos Cut and Bruised in Beards-town Wreck

Two Jacksonville men were hurt and a third escaped injury Sunday night when the car in which they were riding struck a telephone pole at Beards-town.

John Elliott, 315 Lorton street, and John Vasconcellos, 912 North Prairie street, were cut and bruised. Paul Koehler, also of this city, escaped injury. Elliott and Vasconcellos were taken to the Beards-town hospital where they received medical treatment.

Vasconcellos, who was driving, said a car slowed suddenly in front of him and to avoid crashing into the rear of the car he turned off and struck the pole. The pole was broken off about 10 feet from the ground and the front of the car badly damaged.

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER...

Its age-old TASTE is found only in Budweiser

Hundreds of years ago, an ancient monastery in Budweis, Bohemia, brewed a beer of such distinctive and exquisite taste that connoisseurs pronounced it the finest in all the world. Its taste was slightly tart with a delicious, unforgettable tang. Those who drank this beer never tired of it.

Sixty years ago, Anheuser-Busch got from the Bohemian monks their age-old formula. And so BUDWEISER came to America. Its popularity swept the country and then the entire world. The demand for BUDWEISER built the world's largest brewery.

Refinements of method and facilities, yes—but the ancient formula of BUDWEISER remains unchanged. And so today, as of yesterday, BUDWEISER holds an unmatched record—the biggest-selling bottled beer in history. Its distinctive, age-old taste makes it so.

Children Asked to Prevent Accidents

State Highway Department Makes Direct Appeal in the Schools

"Do you know that some boy or girl is killed in an automobile accident every day of the year in Illinois?" is a question placed before Jacksonville grade school children this week on a safety card issued by the Illinois State Division of Highways. The cards, giving a series of safety pointers, are being distributed to all of the schools by State Patrolman Harvey Dowling and Harry Doolin.

Attention of every boy and girl from the first to the sixth grade is being called to the value of caution in crossing streets. Accidents, the cards point out, occurred because children:

"Forgot to look both ways before crossing a street; or tried to see how closely they could dodge a car; or ran into a street from behind a parked car; or played in the street; or roller skated in the street; or coasted their sled on the street; or hooked a ride on the back of a truck or car; or rode on the running board of a car; or got into or out of a car while it was moving; or attempted to drive a car; or walked on a highway with their back to traffic; or rode a bicycle after dark without lights; or disregarded patrol boys' instructions; or failed to ask their parents to drive carefully."

Won't you promise not to run these risks? the state highway officials ask the children.

The state division of highways also has issued a list of twelve safety driving rules for motorists. These are practical and if followed would prevent many accidents and tragedies.

Paul Dean is Defeated For Third Time This Season as Phillies Beat Cards 7 to 6

William Little Stages Comeback

Associated Press Sports Writer.
St. Louis, May 21.—(P)—Paul Dean lost his third game of the season today as the Philadelphia Phillies took their series opener from the world champion Cardinals, 7 to 6.

The young hurler got in trouble in the second and fourth innings and was replaced on the mound by Kleins in the seventh after Philadelphia staged a three-run rally in the sixth. With his usual control lacking, he was hit freely for eight safeties.

Jimmy Wilson, Philadelphia catcher, was struck on the right forearm by a foul tip from Terry Moore's bat in the first inning and left the game.

A series of belligerent moves by players of both teams featured the game. The trouble ended at least temporarily when Dizzy Dean, star St. Louis pitcher, was escorted from the pitcher's bench by a police detail.

After a steady exchange of blows between the rival players, Coach Hans Lohr of the visitors, accused Paul Dean of deliberately throwing a "bean ball" at Lou Chiozza. Dizzy ran from the pitcher's bench to his brother as the latter dropped his glove and took a fighting pose. This was in the fourth inning.

Other players from both teams hurried to the immediate scene, but the field was cleared and play resumed. In the fifth inning Paul Dean hit Todd with a pitched ball. The Philadelphia catcher threw down his bat and rushed toward Paul, who walked in to meet him. Pepper Martin hurried from third base and held Todd while numerous players of both teams tried to land a punch.

Dizzy then departed for the clubhouse and play again started. Philadelphia. AB R H O A. Chiozza, 2b. 4 1 3 6 0. Allen, cf. 5 1 1 5 1. J. Moore, rf. 5 1 2 3 0. Camilli, 3b. 4 1 2 4 2. At least three of the defeated Americans did not go down without a struggle. Knowles, playing in the championship for the first time, carried M. Parkinson to the 20th ground before bowing out. Stranahan lost to D. Coates, 2 up; and Hayes, an American student in a German university, dropped a 2 to 1 decision to Dr. A. B. MacCallister. Forman was beaten in a one-sided 5 to 4 match by I. Lyle.

As a result of the elimination of the British Empire favorite—McLean, Thomson and Somerville—the betting odds were shortened today. Little continued the favorite at the new price of 3 to 1. Cyril Tolley, the round former champion, is the second choice at 12 to 1. Little's opponent tomorrow is one J. P. Zacharias, a native.

Purdue Wallops Illinois 5 To 2
Lafayette, Ind., May 21.—(P)—Purdue's baseball team upset the conference-leading Illinois nine 5 to 2 here today, combining timely hitting with illini errors.

Elrod scattered eight illini hits and received sensational support in the pinches. He failed to strike out a single batter, but the illini sluggers popped up or hit easy grounders.

REICH FORCED TO REARM IS HITLER CLAIM

Victorious Nations Are Blamed For Arms Race

By Louis P. Lochner
Copyright, 1935.
By The Associated Press.
Berlin, May 21.—(P)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight blamed Europe's darker-fraught armaments race squarely on nations victorious in the world war which imposed the Versailles Treaty upon Germany.

In an impassioned address to the Reichstag, summoned into special session, he scathingly denounced other powers for violating the peace treaty's arms limitations, thus forcing the Reich to rearm.

Thundrously cheered as he pronounced his eagerly awaited address on foreign policy, which the radio carried to millions throughout Germany and Europe, the Fuehrer again protested Germany's desire for peace.

"If the Germany of today favors peace," he said, "it favors it neither out of weakness nor cowardice, x x x. We defy every war for the subjugation of foreign peoples. Germany of today is immersed in the tremendous work of repairing its domestic damages. None of our subjects of a factual nature will be completed before ten or 20 years. None of our tasks of an ideal nature can find its fulfillment before 50 or even 100 years."

"What else could I desire but quiet and peace?"
Declaring the present "veritable mania of collective and cooperative effort x x x the spiritual property of the American President Wilson," Hitler said the Versailles Treaty imposed the death sentence upon "the collective, cooperative efforts of nations."

In that treaty, he declared, "there was put a classic occasion according to victors and vanquished, in place of equal rights, differentiation between those without rights." Germany nevertheless is willing the Fuehrer told the legislators assembled in the Kroll opera house, to sign non-aggression pacts with all European nations save Lithuania, "not because we want war there but because we can not enter into a political agreement with a state which disregards the most primitive laws of human society."

"Germany has nothing to gain from any European war," Hitler declared since "we crave freedom and independence, x x x." "We are ready, through non-aggression pacts, to heighten that feeling of security which we also profit."

White Sox Trim Yankees 3 To 2

New York, May 21.—(P)—With Al Simmons and Ray Radcliffe hitting home runs, Ted Lyons, veteran right-hander, turned in his fourth victory of the year for the Chicago White Sox today as the league leaders defeated the New York Yankees 3 to 2 to square the series at one all.

For five innings Lyons and young Vito Tamulis hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel, the White Sox veteran allowing only three hits and the Yankee youngster one less.

In the sixth, the Sox found the range. With one out Radcliffe dropped a double in left field. Manager Jimmie Dykes flied out but Al Simmons crashed through with his fourth homer of the season to put the league leaders in front. Simmons' blow broke a string of 16 consecutive scoreless innings for the rookie southpaw.

The Yankees came right back to tie the score in the seventh, however. The victory, coupled with the Red Sox' defeat of Cleveland, increased the White Sox lead to two and one-half games over the second place Indians and three games over the third place Yankees.

They were traveling at a speed of about 116 miles an hour.

The accident was the second fatal crash of the day. Johnny Hannon, 25, of Norristown, Pa., was killed this morning when his car jumped the wall at the north-east curve. Hannon was "warning up" at the time. His mechanic also was injured seriously. Stubblefield's speedster, out of control, bounced cleanly over the outside retaining wall almost at the exact spot where Pete Kreis, Knoxville, (Tenn.) sportsman, was killed a year ago.

The racer's front wheels fell off. It overturned several times, sheared off 75 feet of a wire fence designed to keep spectators from the turn and landed twenty yards from the track, nose up against a fence.

Bambino Also Contributes To Break Carleton's Spell

Chicago, May 21.—(P)—Eabe Ruth hit his first home run in more than a month and also contributed a couple of nice running catches to the Boston case today as the Braves finally broke Tex Carleton's two-year spell over them and beat the Cubs, 4 to 1, to even the series at one game apiece.

The Babe's homer, his third circuit blow and the eighth hit of his new National League career, came at the start of the sixth inning and landed over the right field wall in Sheffield avenue. After the Braves had scored the first two runs of the game on three hits in the fifth, Randy Moore followed the Babe with a duplicate homer. A double by Mallon, who had passed finished Carleton, who had entered the arena boasting a string of seven consecutive victories over the Braves.

Ruth batted four times before giving way to a relief fielder after six and a half innings. He bounced to the mound and fled to the outfield twice in his other appearances at the plate. Two of the three flies that came his way necessitated a little more than average running.

Earlier Senator McCarran (D, Nev.) had directed hotly-worded criticism at the schedule. McCarran, leader of the defeated drive to force the payment of wages prevailing in private industry, asserted that President Roosevelt's executive order would "completely wreck the country's wage scale." He indicated that it was preparing to "take the wages on the floor of the Senate."

Administration officials denied the new rates, which represents a slash compared with PWA scales, would "wreck" the pay structure. Although issuing no immediate formal statement over their signature, they contended the schedule is higher than may seem at first glance because the Administration officials denied the new rates, which represents a slash as compared with PWA scales, would "wreck" the pay structure. Although issuing no immediate formal statement over their signature, they contended the schedule is higher than it may seem at first glance because those affected will work for 12 consecutive months. Because of long lay-offs in the private construction industry, they argued, the work relief wages will compare favorably with the private figures when yearly totals are considered.

Green said the limit of one worker to a family was an unjust restriction.

Motorist Kidnaps Hitch-hiking Wife
Granite City, Ill.—(P)—Police today searched for Mrs. Walter McKinney, 23, whose husband reported she was kidnapped last night by a motorist who had given them a ride. The couple has been married three months.

McKinney, an unemployed telephone lineman living at Venice, Ill., reported the abduction drove away with his wife after sending him into a drug store at Namekit for a package of gum. As he came from the drug store he saw the car driving away and heard his wife cry out, he said.

Mrs. Kinney was described as being 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds and blond. The motorist, who indicated during the ride he was employed in St. Louis, was described by McKinney as 35 years old and 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Mrs. McKinney formerly lived at Hannibal, Mo., where she has a 3-year-old child by a former marriage.

Lawrence of Arabia Death Accidental
Wool, Dorsetshire, England.—(P)—Whether or not a mysterious black automobile had anything to do with the death of the almost legendary "Lawrence of Arabia," a coroner's jury of seven men decided today that he met death accidentally.

Corporal Ernest Catchpole testified he saw Col. E. T. Lawrence swerve his motorcycle at the time of the accident May 13 to avoid an automobile, colliding immediately with a butcher boy on a bicycle. Lawrence, he said, was riding along the Dorsetshire country road at a speed of from 50 to 60 miles an hour.

A lad who had been a companion of the butcher boy testified he did not see the automobile described by Catchpole.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, is restless and discontented with the useless round of social activities she makes up for her life. She rides daily with MICHAEL HEATHEROE, who runs a riding club.
SALLY MOON, local coquette, also enrolls at the club for riding lessons.
ZOE PARKER, Katharine's friend, sent to Europe to forget a love affair with GIBBS LARKIN, returns. She persists in seeing Gibbs in spite of her parents' objections.
Katharine, riding with Michael, is thrown from her horse. Shocked but not seriously injured, she is taken to the home of VIOLET MERSEY.
VIOLET MERSEY comes to see his daughter. Mrs. Mersey welcomes him as an old acquaintance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XI
"We meet again," Violet Mersey had said lightly to the hand some, portly gentleman who had invaded her prim little sitting room with its white paint and polished old tables and bright chintzes.

Victor Strykhurst opened his eyes quite widely at this. "Violet! But this is extraordinary. My wife said..."

"What did she tell you? Sit down, Victor. Katharine is splendid; you may go up in a minute. But first I'd like to talk to you."

"Of course, of course," he stammered comfortably in one of the deep cushioned chairs, glancing around him approvingly. "But I never knew you lived in Inglewood, Violet!"

"We've been here almost seven years."

"I knew you married, of course. Saw a bit about it in the papers. Her dark eyes were rather enigmatic. 'You didn't write to wish me joy, I—I rather thought you would.'"

He touched his full lips with the corners of a fine white handkerchief. "Katharine's mother died that year," he said rather hollowly. "Yes, I remember. Your daughter is a lovely creature. Your daughter does she remind you of me at that age?"

"Eh?" Victor Strykhurst's color deepened a trifle. He glanced apprehensively in the direction of the staircase.

"Don't worry," Violet went on softly. "Her door is closed. She can't hear. I was Katharine's age just 17 years ago, Victor. I was 20 when I went to work in your office."

"Is it possible it's that long?" murmured the man, exhaling a deep breath.

"I was rather like her," murmured the woman with the tired dark eyes, staring out across the darkened garden. "I had the same prickly-pear attitude in regard to men... oh, yes, I've talked to Katharine a great deal. I've found out more about her, perhaps, than you yourself know."

HER tone held a subtle hint of mystery in it. The man glanced at her apprehensively.

"I know you're wondering what this is all about," said Mrs. Mersey, rousing herself to speak in a slightly brisker tone. "Just this—the child is very definitely unhappy."

"Unhappy? My daughter? There was injury to the man's tone. 'Im possible! You were always an imaginative girl. Vi. Katharine has everything in the world. Why should she be unhappy?'"

Mrs. Mersey shrugged her slender shoulders. "I met the second

Mrs. Strykhurst for the first time today, Victor."

"He had the grace to flush."

"Bertine's been splendid with Katharine. She's very executive. She took her in hand..."

"Exactly!" Mrs. Mersey's tone was dry.

"Katharine needs a lot of love, sympathy and understanding," she pursued a moment later. "Or—well, you know how it was with me. She may go off the deep end..."

"I haven't the faintest notion what you mean!" The man's annoyance showed in every syllable.

"I mean you may expect her to find sympathy—or love—wherever she can find it."

"Oh, Tommy!"

"I did," reminded the woman, with rather a bitter smile. "My home was unhappy. I believed the first pretty story a man told me. You may remember..."

He looked at her as if the reminder were to him a painful one.

Violet Mersey rose, as if terminating the interview. "Well, that's really all I wanted to say, Victor. Go on up now. First door to the right at the head of the stairs."

His tread echoed pompously through the house.

The woman, left alone, stared around her for a moment, as though rousing herself from a dream into which she had fallen.

"Seventeen years," murmured the woman, half to herself. She settled herself with a book, but her gaze wandered from the pages.

"WELL, well!" Victor Strykhurst came downstairs briskly, rubbing his hands together. "Katharine's in fine shape. We were in luck to come off so easily. Don't you think I could take her off with me tonight?"

"The doctor advised letting her stay till morning," Violet Mersey smiled at him. "You'd rather get her out of my house, wouldn't you?"

"Nonsense, nonsense! I am eternally indebted to you for your kindness to Katharine!"

"I'm not going to tell her anything about—us," said the woman with deliberation.

"Naturally, you wouldn't. You're a most sensible woman, Violet. I always said so..."

"Not sensible enough!" A sardonic touch to her voice now. "That is, I'll not say a word, on one condition!"

He stared. "And that?"

"That you let her come to see me occasionally. That you don't attempt to wear her away from me. I like the child. I've taken a great fancy to her. I've two of my own now, Victor, you see."

"Really? But of course you must be friends with Katharine. Why not?"

"There may be another objection to that," commented Violet Mersey dryly. "Your wife..."

"Bertine is all right. She means well. It's not so easy, you know, to raise another woman's child."

Violet Mersey smiled to herself. She could almost hear the second Mrs. Strykhurst's voice. He had been told that many, many times.

"I agree. I had a stepmother myself. Looking back now, I can see that sometimes she meant well..."

"You're very cozy here," his eyes roamed around the sitting room. "Stan inherited it from his uncle," the woman told him. "I married Stan Mersey, the illustrator."

"Interesting," murmured the man, at a loss. "Well, well, Violet, I must be getting back. My wife will wonder if something has happened."

She allowed him to clasp her slender hand in his fleshy one. "And—and we didn't know each other before, Victor!"

"Right you are!" There was relief in the words.

KATHARINE came down the stairs slowly the following morning.

"You're all right?" Violet's eyes sought hers anxiously. Outside Bertine sat at the wheel of the big car. Ellen, with a suitcase, followed her young mistress.

"Oh, I'm perfectly fine. Just have to get my land legs again."

Sybil and Diana were on the edge of the group, their long legs brown and slim under the brief shorts of their white play suits.

"Do come again to see us, Miss Katharine. Please do!"

"Oh, I will! And there must be another puppy for the basket, mustn't there? A nice quiet one who will stay at home when he's told to!"

"Oh, yes, yes," they chorused, dancing up and down.

Bertine smiled stiffly, her company smile. She climbed out to assist Ellen who was helping Katharine in.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Mersey. My husband and I are eternally grateful."

Katharine waved to them until the car disappeared out of sight, around the bend.

"Mummy, who was the fatish man who came after we went to bed last night?" Sybil's wistful, round face with its long golden mane was lifted to her mothers.

"Oh, you had ones, you were supposed to be asleep!"

"We peeked," Sybil said confidently. "We heard the car stop and saw him come up the walk. Was that Miss Katharine's daddy and was he nice?"

"Very nice," said Violet absently. Diana pounced upon her.

"Mummy, you're not listening. I can always tell when you're not listening. You use such a faraway voice."

"Oh, do!" But I was, really, this time. Sybil asked Katharine's father were nice and I said yes, he was."

"But sort of puffy, Mummy, wasn't he? It wasn't quite dark and we got a good look at him. Don't nearly so good-looking as Miss Katharine. Do you think she's beautiful, Mummy? Sort of like a movie star?"

"Yes, I do. She's really lovely."

"Shall I ever be that lovely, do you suppose, if I stop tilting my nails and things?" Sybil asked gravely.

"I think very likely. Look, if we want to get down to the village to get things for lunch we'd better start."

Violet wheeled the little car out and the two hopped into it.

"Mummy, what were you muttering to yourself just now?"

She dashed her dark eyes at them. "Just a song some one I knew used to sing. The words of it, I mean. Don't remember the tune."

"What were they, Mums?"

Violet answered: "Oh how I laugh, when I think how I cried about you!"

PARADOX WILL BE EXPLAINED AT EXHIBITION

Modern Cookery Will Be One Of Many Features At Cooking School

A modern paradox, "the more you use the less you pay" will be thoroughly explained at the Journal and Courier modern cooking school to be held at the Fox Illinois theater beginning Monday, May 27, and continuing until Friday morning, with the exception of Decoration day.

The paradox, involving the use of more electricity with less actual outlay in dollars, was revealed when the Journal and Courier began a search to find new and modern appliances to present to the housewives of the community.

John R. Hoffman, manager of the local branch of the Illinois Power and Light Corp., revealed the figures on how electric cookery actually is cheaper than any other type fuel, through a comparison of bills paid by the company by 25 users of electric stoves over a period of several months.

The rates available for customers using electricity for cooking and all other household service on one meter is $2.75 for the first 50 k. w. h., 3 cents a k. w. h. for the next block of 150 k. w. h. and 1 cent for all over that amount.

Where an electric water heater is used in addition to the range and other household appliances, the cost is still further reduced.

Actual experience with electric cookery has been that the electric bills are about the same amount as formerly where both electricity and other fuel was used but the cost of gas or other type of fuel has been entirely eliminated, creating a large saving.

All electric service is being delivered through a single house meter now, doing away with special meters for refrigerators, stoves and water heaters, because it has been found that by putting the entire load through one meter, cheaper rates result. Average bills for the group of 25 persons studied was about $6.50 a month. This included electricity for the operation of refrigerators, radios, lights, and various other appliances as well as electric cooking.

All electric ranges will be used in the Journal and Courier cooking school. Miss Lucille Harris, National Live-Stock and Meat Board demonstrator has made a long study in an expert in electric cooking.

The Journal and Courier company, in cooperation with the Illinois Power and Light Corp., will donate one of the electric ranges used in the school as the grand prize.

The ranges themselves are of the latest design, with four burner tops, sufficient oven space, and the timing device which makes it possible to put an entire meal on the stove, leave home for several hours, and come home to a hot meal without further preparation.

Many other electrical appliances will be demonstrated during the show.

Jacksonville Man Honored At Centennial Meeting

Peoria, Ill., May 21.—(P)—Jubilee College near Peoria, Ill., the center of the Episcopal Church in Illinois, resumed something of its past glory today as church dignitaries and laymen assembled for the Centennial Anniversary of its founding.

The chapel, built in part with funds contributed by Queen Victoria of England; Philander Chase, pioneer Bishop and founder of the college; the grounds—all were extolled and regenerated in today's ceremonies.

The college site has been acquired as a state park and will be preserved, according to a statement from Governor Henry Horner, as a permanent center in the state's religious and educational life.

An outdoor service tonight will be the highlight of the celebration. Bishop George Craig Stewart of Chicago will be the principal speaker.

Dr. E. M. Johnson, Chicago, was ordained to the priesthood prior to the celebration at the college. Ordained as a Deacon was Stoddard Patterson, Jacksonville, the Rt. Rev. John Chanler White, Bishop of Springfield, officiated.

COLLEGE RIG VEDA ISSUED

I. C. Year Book Ready For Distribution: Novel Features

This year's edition of the Illinois college year book, the Rig Veda, is ready for distribution, the first copies having been issued yesterday. Two classes, the Seniors and Juniors, have joined in publishing the book, which contains numerous novel features.

From the standpoint of makeup the year book has many unique features. The cover is entirely different, new ideas have been worked into the opening section and the division pages, and scattered throughout the book are many interesting depictions from the usual material included within the pages of an annual. Editors Cecil Giffen and Eldred Robertson added many features to the book Howard Greenwalt is business manager.

The cover of this new edition, which is the thirty-sixth volume of the Rig Veda, is of gray, with the name and date in blue running diagonally across the front.

The opening section, besides containing several views of the campus and buildings set off nicely by blue type lines, has three so-called photographs, or photographic blends. Numerous views of campus life are blended together into a large picture.

The division pages, instead of being adorned by the usual formal portraits or landscape scenes, bear photographs of unusual clay models, which illustrate the section which is to follow. These models were made for the editors by Don Shirley and Ray Kelly.
